REFERENCE

At Premier Foods' production facility in Worksop, England, a VP 451 case packer packs blister packs with Indian bread into wrap-around cases. The machine is equipped with a special paddle chain to erect the products plus a high capacity blank magazine. The products enter the machine lying flat in a single lane and are then erected by the paddle chain. In the loading station, the blister packs are cross-pushed according to the selected format to create the desired formation and are subsequently packed in wrap-around cases.

With its numerous production sites, the British company Premier Foods is one of the largest food producers in the United Kingdom and Ireland. Well-known brands such as Sharwood's, Batchelors and Bisto belong to the group.
